Students grill federal candidates

Students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School had an opportunity to grill the four candidates in the February 18 federal election Tuesday afternoon. The four, Patrick Daniel, representing the NDP, John Hayes the Libertarian candidate, Ivan Rodd of the Liberals, and incumbent Bill Scott of the Progressive Conservatives fielded questions from the senior students and explained various aspects of their party's platforms.

In their opening remarks the candidates dwelled mainly on national policies, reiterating the platforms presented by their party leaders. Matters such as oil policy and the economy dominated the introductory remarks.

However, when the students had an opportunity to quiz the candidates, a wide cross-section of issues were brought into focus.

In response to an enquiry about their party's stand on women's rights, all candidates said fair and equal treatment of women in Canadian society was a part of their platform.

Libertarian candidate John Hayes pointed out that one of the basic tenets of his party is the right of an individual to do anything he wants in society as long as it does not infringe on the rights of others. Hayes said, "We feel under such a philosophy, that there is simply no need for legislation protecting women's rights."

NDP candidate Patrick Daniel commented that his party's position on women's rights in Canada has received the endorsement of the Committee for the Status of Women.

The students also seemed concerned about the quality and content of the television commercials being presented by all parties. Progressive Conservative Bill Scott said he didn't believe in cutting up the other candidates on anything other than the issues. He said he had contacted the PC national headquarters to complain about the content of some of the commercials prepared by the national party.

Ivan Rodd, the Liberal candidate, said that while he was also against a "personality" campaign, such as has been run by some parties, he cautioned the students not to confuse attacks on policy issues and name calling.

Patrick Daniel of the NDP said he deplored negative advertising and said that none of the Haliburton candidates had participated in such tactics. He said criticism of the performance of MP Bill Scott was a legitimate area of concern for the candidates.

Hayes commented that the personality campaigns show the major parties have nothing to offer as far as the main issues are concerned.

The candidates were pressed by the students to comment on the issues facing the electorate. "You have avoided the issues. We want some answers," one student urged the four.

Scott said the PC budget was an attempt at balancing the budget of the country. "It was a tough budget but it was needed," he commented. "We knew it would be unpopular but we put the country ahead of the party."

Hayes re-iterated his party's stand that government action does not create jobs but rather investment by the private sector is the only way to improve the unemployment picture.

On other matters, Rodd promised a Liberal government would attempt to bring small industry into the area. "Haliburton needs light clean industry," he commented. "We must also be concerned about the impact of acid rain on tourism and the cottage industry."

The question period ended with each of the candidates presenting their positions on capital punishment.

"I have voted three times for the retention of capital punishment for those convicted of premeditated murder," Bill Scott declared. "That continues to be my stand." He said his main concern was for the protection of the public.

Ivan Rodd stated that there was no conclusive proof that capital punishment is a deterrent to criminals. "Until I have such proof, I like the situation the way it is now."

The NDP candidate

Patrick Daniel noted that the three main party leaders supported the abolition of capital punishment when the free vote was held in the House of Commons. "At the same time so did the United, Anglican and Roman Catholic churches. There is no evidence that capital punishment results in a lower murder rate," Daniel said in announcing his abolitionist stand.

Hayes said that Rodd and Daniel should check with Statistics Canada if they wanted proof. "Figures show," he commented, "that the murder rate in Canada has gone up two and a half times since abolition was introduced. There is no more heinous crime than murder, and any man who takes another's life should, when proven guilty beyond a doubt, lose the right to his own."

The candidates each had three minutes at the close of the meeting to touch on issues that were not raised or to re-iterate points made during the question and answer period.

Two mark 95th birthday

Ellen Knight

Two residents of Hyland Crest Nursing Home marked birthdays of note during the past week. William Deacon and Ellen Knight both turned 95.

Ellen Knight, a native of Alice Township near Pembroke, celebrated her birthday February 6. Mrs. Knight spent most of her life in Copper Cliff, near Sudbury. Her father had moved from the Ottawa Valley to the mining community when she was six years of age. He had gone to Copper Cliff in search of mining work and the higher wages.

Mrs. Knight met her husband there, married and raised her family in that community. She moved to the Haliburton area 15 years ago and has been a resident of the nursing home for the past six years.

Mrs. Knight has a daughter in Lochlin and another daughter living in Kemptonville, near Ottawa.

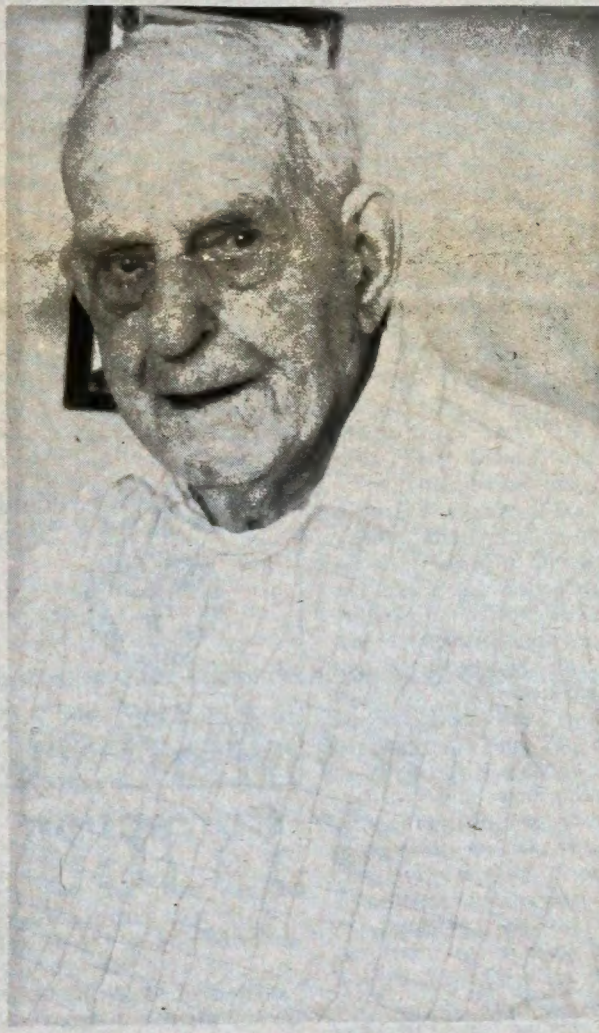

William Deacon, a native of Haliburton County, marked his ninety-fifth birthday February 11. He was born in Hall's Lake and remembers his father staking out grant land in that area and the construction of their stone house in 1901.

Mr. Deacon spent most of his working life in the bush and logging trade. He recalls the log drives on area rivers and followed the logs south for 17 years before taking a position in a sawmill. Just after the turn of the century he was paid the princely sum of $45 for a month's labour. That was later increased to $65 per month.

During World War One, Mr. Deacon worked in Peterborough at a factory turning out shell casings. "I didn't know any more about a lathe than a lathe knew about me," he recalls.

He raised his family in the county and his wife passed away in 1950. He uses a cane to get about but still remains active at Hyland Crest.

Mr. Deacon attributes his long life to lots of hard work and only seeing the doctor, "when I really had to."

Campaign to start shortly

Fund raising for the new library should start shortly. Members of the library committee met Monday evening to iron out details of the project which it hopes to begin as soon as possible.

The committee members decided that a single fund raising drive would be preferable to two collections taking place at one time. It had been suggested at an earlier meeting that two committees be formed to canvass the community, one for the library portion of the building and one for the gallery portion. A feasibility study presented earlier this month suggested that the community could support a library with attached art gallery area.

One of the problems with combining the two projects under one roof is that the gallery portion of the building

Hands across the border

A hockey team from Amherst New York, playing in the Lake Kashagawigamog Tourist Association Atom Tournament this past weekend in Haliburton had a special message for the other players, parents and fans taking part in the event.

Before starting their semi-final championship game Sunday afternoon against Georgetown, the only American team in the tournament lined up on their blue line. As the announcer at the Haliburton rink drew the crowd's attention to the young hockey players, they revealed placards spelling out the words, "Thank you Canada!"

The message, which was also shouted out by the players, was in response to the action of Canadian diplomats in Iran in spiriting six Americans out of that country. A team official said the players and team members decided to take advantage of their visit to Canada to personally demonstrate their appreciation to the Canadian people for their assistance in Iran.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

In case you hadn't noticed it's been a tough winter here in the Highlands. It could be a lot worse of course, if we didn't have events such as the carnivals and hockey tournaments to draw visitors to the area. The weather however has cut drastically into the overall tourist potential of this season and has also caused some serious problems for quite a number of people with frozen drains, water lines, etc..

This unfortunate situation has made many people painfully aware of just how much their business depends on tourism even though they may not be directly involved in it. Cottagers form part of the tourism market and they are not spending money on transportation to and from the cottage every week-end when we have such limited snow conditions. As travel becomes more and more expensive we must be conscious of the fact that conditions here are going to have to be attractive in order to encourage people to spend the money to come here. This will mean concentrating more and more on events and attractions rather than relying entirely on good scenery and weather.

Many may debate the advisability of being so heavily dependent on tourism for our economic base, but the fact is we are -- and we can't afford not to promote it for all it's worth.

Canada Wonderland

April may seem like a long way off but we would ask that your mark Wednesday, April 9 on your calendar now for a very important Chamber semi-annual meeting. The featured speaker that day will be Mr. Mike Filey, Public Relations Manager for "Canada Wonderland".

Canada Wonderland is the multi-million dollar theme park that is presently under construction near Maple. The size and effect of this park lies somewhere between Disneyland and Disney World. It is anticipated that it will draw visitors from all over Canada and U.S. who will stay in the area for an average of a week. Of this time only two days may be spent visiting the park. Tourist regions throughout Ontario are presently laying plans on how to capitalize on the market potential to encourage these people as visitors during the balance of their stay.

Everyone even remotely connected with tourism in our area will want to see and hear the presentation that will be made on this huge new development. Make a note of the date now!

Operation S.H.O.P.
The Ontario Chamber of Commerce Executives Association has recognized the impact of shoplifting on the economy. A committee of Chamber managers have developed a program to combat this problem which will be put into effect by various Chambers throughout the province, including our own, commencing this spring. We would anticipate that following the very successful workshops last year on crime prevention that this program should be well received here and have the added impact of media support from other surrounding participants. We hope you will be watching for more information as it develops and be prepared to participate.

Congratulations

Hearty congratulations are in order to Toronto Dominion bank manger Al Dominion bank manager Al Mayo, and his staff who are now occupying their new facilities on South Water Street in Minden. Their opening ceremonies were attended by many well wishers from throughout the community.

Congratulations and wishes for continued success are also in order for John Pentney who is now the sole proprietor of Minden Home Hardware. Consumers can expect the same progressive approach and excellent service they have always received from the Pentneys at this familiar location.

Vote

Next Monday is election day. Voting is a right we should not treat lightly -- not everyone in the world has this right. Use it -- and use it wisely.

Correction

A report on page one of last week's edition of The Times indicated that three individuals had perished in a fire at Oxtongue Lake on Highway 60. This was incorrect.

The blaze, which destroyed the Timber Trail Lodge, February 2, took the lives of two people, Elizabeth Anne Marson, 29, and Joel Timothy Marson, five months. John Marson, 29, escaped the fire.

Local OPP note decrease in crime

Statistics prepared by the Minden detachment of the OPP shows a decrease in offences in a number of significant areas. This trend runs counter to that experienced across the province as most types of crimes and highway offences showed an increase.

For example, the most significant increase in crime in the province last year, according to OPP Commissioner H.H. Graham, was in fraud offences. These showed an increase of 18.4% across Ontario while in Haliburton County there was a decrease of 36% in the number of fraud offences.

The local detachment also reports a decrease of five percent in the number of break-ins. There were 281 reported.

The number of motor vehicle collisions also showed a decrease during 1979 with a total of 372 reportable accidents taking place. This represented a decrease of 11%. The decline in local statistics compares with an increase on a province-wide basis of 7.2% in the number of accidents reported to the OPP.

The number of highway fatalities in the county was up, although the number of collisions involving a fatality remained the same. Six individuals were killed in four accidents in the county during 1979. Four people were killed the year before.

In other statistics prepared by the local detachment; 116 individuals were charged in the county with failing to wear seat belts; 12 charges were laid under the motorized snow vehicle act; winter patrols checked and tagged 2,415 cottages in the area; 88 individuals were charged with marine violations; and the summer marine patrol checked and tagged 449 cottages.

Truck up a creek

A 1975 pick-up truck came to rest in a creek after leaving Trappers Trail in Dudley Township on February 9.

The driver of the southbound vehicle, Gordon McWalters, 43, of Haliburton suffered a minor injury when the pick-up truck he was driving went into the east ditch.

McWalters bank account sustained a major injury as his truck was ditched for $2800 damage.

The investigating officer of the incident was Constable Mike Smith.

Newcastle St. accident

Early Saturday morning, a 1978 car driven by Gary Foster, 23, of Peterborough went into the north ditch on Newcastle Street in Minden. The incident occurred on February 9 when Foster was travelling west.

Foster was uninjured, however his car will be in need of $1500 worth of repairs.

The accident was investigated by Constable Reg Eveligh of the OPP.

Log truck ditched

The driver of a 1977 log truck, Roger Bain, 24, of Haliburton, suffered minimal injuries when his truck went off Harburn Road on February 8.

As the log truck was travelling south it entered the west ditch and rolled onto its side. The truck sustained $1500 damage.

The investigating officer was Constable Dennis Potter.

Parked car

A parked car sustained $1000 damage following a collision February 9 on the Essonville Line.

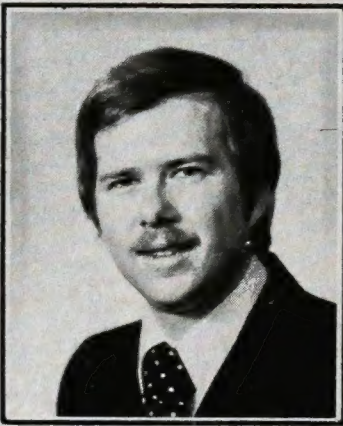

According to police a 1973 model car, driven by Terry Traviss, 22, of R.R. 1 Tory Hill was travelling west on the road when the driver lost control and rammed the rear of the parked vehicle. The Traviss car sustained $900 damage.

Police have charged Traviss with failing to report a motor vehicle accident as soon as possible.

The matter was investigated by Constable Mike Legge of the Minden OPP.

Stanhope brigade in fighting trim

Stanhope residents who were anxious about the state of their fire brigade can now rest a little easier. According to a letter from the Ontario Fire Marshal, the brigade has returned to fighting trim.

The volunteer brigade had been hurt by a series of internal disputes early last year that left morale at a low point and the members of the brigade divided into factions. The controversy was eventually brought to a head and efforts were made to rebuild the department.

Foremost in the rebuilding process was a training program and re-organization prepared in conjunction with the Ontario Fire Marshal.

Norman Vine, assistant chief of the fire advisory services for the Fire Marshal's office informed the Stanhope council last month that the remedial steps have been successful. "I feel certain that your fire department is capable of providing adequate fire protection for the residents of your municipality and that it will continue to be a progressive department," the letter from Vine stated.

The spokesman said that the re-organization has been successful.

He pointed out that all but one recommendation of a re-organization report submitted on July 16 of last year have been implemented. The only outstanding issue is the appointment of enough officers to serve the brigade.

Vine states that he agrees with the suggestion of brigade

Fire Chief George Wilson that more time is needed to evaluate the potential of those interested in the positions as officers. "...every effort should be made to appoint suitable persons as soon as possible," the letter from Vine concludes.

Council meeting

Three other fire matters were dealt with at the February 6 meeting of Stanhope Township council.

A number of fire wardens were appointed for the coming year. Included in the list of appointees were Tom Geddis, Len Hewitt, Bob Jennings, Gord Martin and Dale MacDonald.

The council also reaffirmed George Wilson as the Chief of the Stanhope brigade.

The resignation of firefighter Hector Arsenault was accepted by the council. He had to step down from his position for medical reasons.

When the winter evenings of February crackle with frost outside, the attraction of throwing another log on the fire and curling up with a good book becomes almost irresistible. If you have ever wondered why some folks seem to feel so strongly about the preservation of nature, I'd recommend one book in particular to explain that compulsion.

"A Sand County Almanac" was written thirty years ago by a conservationist named Aldo Leopold, but its enduring relevance makes it a classic. Leopold makes no attempt to hide his bias; the opening words of his book firmly set his theme: "There are some who can live without wild things, and some who cannot. These essays are the delights and dilemmas of one who cannot."

From a series of "sketches" garnered from his weekend retreat and his travels, Leopold weaves together the strands of a lifetime of conservation into a concluding chapter on ethics - a reminder that man is part of a world-wide ecological community, and that land is more than simply a commodity for the real estate market. Along the way, he touches on a host of issues still controversial today: threats to wilderness by recreational over-development and motorized gadgets; the ethics of hunting; the obligations of landowners to husband their land rather than simply exploit.

All this sounds like pretty heavy reading, but in fact it is not. Leopold's informal style and vivid use of examples makes the "Almanac" a delightful fireside companion. But be warned - the magic of his word sketches is likely to sidetrack anyone with the slightest interest in nature into day-dreams of their own, and you are likely to find yourself coming back to favourite passages again and again like an old friend.

Despite Aldo Leopold's untimely death fighting a grass fire on a neighbour's farm thirty years ago, his lessons on humanity continue to sound like they could have been written yesterday: "Our bigger-and-better society is now like a hypochondriac, so obsessed with its own economic health as to have lost the capacity to remain healthy."

qualifies for a larger number of grants from the provincial government. A formula for dividing the funds collected in a single campaign for the two parts of the building has yet to be worked out.

The target for the campaign is just over $160,000 based on the cost estimate contained in the feasibility study.

The gallery portion of the proposed 2500 foot complex will be contained in an open room that will also be available for the showing of films, meetings of small groups and crafts groups and other activities.

Irene Moore, fund raising chairman for the project, has indicated the committee will be seeking donations through a number of methods. "We will be accepting straight donations, offering people the opportunity to pledge a certain amount of money over a given time period, and holding a number of fund raising events." She said she hoped to get the campaign underway as soon as possible.

While the campaign for funds is proceeding, the committee will search for a location for the building and start preliminary designing of the structure. The site chosen earlier, on Bobcaygeon Road North has proven to be unsatisfactory because of soil conditions. The group is considering utilizing the property adjacent to the present municipal building, but no firm decision is expected until soil conditions have been tested in that area.

However, the lack of a site and formal plans has not deterred the efforts of the committee, and the drive for funds is expected to get underway shortly.

Anyone wishing to make a donation to the library fund can send it to the campaign chairman, Irene Moore, Box 2, Minden, Ontario.

Editorial

As the nation heads into the final few days of the election campaign, one cannot help but reflect on just how quiet things have been in the county since the vote was first announced in December.

This, perhaps, is a result of the population concentration, (Lindsay) which lies outside of this county. Or, it might reflect the persuasive strength of the incumbent in Victoria-Haliburton, a strength that leaves voters and the other candidates knowing already what the outcome will be. Perhaps the race is really for second place.

Or perhaps the attitude may be a sign of the lethargy that comes from being assaulted with political messages, (or, from the candidates' point of view, trying to find new ways to phrase old promises) too soon after the country last went to the polls.

Whatever the cause, the result is both unfortunate and disheartening.

Several candidates made token appearances in the community during the winter carnival, but riding in a parade or handling one end of a bucksaw is very superficial campaigning. Once the candidates have melted from the scene, the voters are none-the-wiser.

Only two of the four candidates (Daniel and Hayes) in this riding have visited our office to discuss the issues and explain their platform. While there is no obligation on the part of any of the politicians to darken our door, in a county that relies heavily on the weekly press for the majority of its local news, this oversight or lack of concern is disappointing.

In a similar manner, our efforts to shed some light on the politicians and their platforms, by providing all with free space on page five of this week's issue, has met with only a mediocre response. As far as we can tell from the submissions received, only one candidate put any thought or effort into the presentation he has made. The other three sent press releases, probably prepared by a secretary at campaign headquarters.

Even the last minute attempt to infuse a little sparkle into the campaign by the holding of an all-candidates meeting Tuesday at the high school left a great deal to be desired.

The event was organized too late in the campaign for any amount of publicity to be circulated. Those who attended and asked most of the questions represented only one small sector of the county's constituents. The meeting was held in the middle of the afternoon, an inconvenient time for most working people. (We recognize that the organizers are not responsible for all these wrinkles.)

Who can we blame for this lack-lustre campaign? The electorate must share some of the responsibility. The voters have not demanded, as they should in a loud and strong voice, that they want to hear what the candidates have to say. The local media might also be faulted for not ferreting out the candidates and their opinions.

While these two groups must share a portion of the blame for the quiet campaign, the greatest responsibility lies with the candidates themselves. We know of only one candidate who bothered to canvass merchants and shoppers on Minden's main street. If there were others, they must have been working in the dead of night. There have been no information meetings in the area, no "meet the candidate" (singly or all four at once) gathering held here. Even the lack of lawn signs or car window posters offers an indication of just how much time the candidates or their workers have been spending in Minden and area.

Unfortunately, this lack of activity on the part of the candidates and their supporters has cheated the county voters. They may know, or think they know, a great deal about the incumbent, but the knowledge of the other candidates in the race, the information that would make them informed voters, is lacking.

There are only three more electioneering days before the vote takes place. The time is too short, but we still hope the candidates do make an effort to explain why their names are on the ballot.

What can I say? My Goose is cooked.

After several weeks of intensive and dilettante campaigning in Florida and Las Vegas my hopes are dashed and my Great Canadian Goose Party lies in a shambles in the brambles and beads at my feet. Immediately upon my return I perceived something was obviously not going well with my campaign. I was sure I had left everything in good hands with my manager, Elam Schleppe. He had my explicit instructions on all matters, access to the campaign treasure chest and the key to the liquor cabinet. I can't understand what has gone wrong.

As I drive around the riding it is obvious the other candidates have left into a massive lead. Everywhere I look there are lawn signs for Case, Wrightman and one rather weird character, or perhaps it's a team effort, known as Bowes and Cocks. I could tell as soon as I saw all these signs that there was a great deal of work to be done, ground to be covered and action to be taken. Moving forward on a bold and positive step, I have started ripping down my opponents signs whenever I can get the chance. It just isn't fair for them to have theirs up when mine haven't even gone to the printers.

But, enough of this idle banter, this useless but repetitive repartee, this elocuted fencing. It is time to undress the issues and place before you my platform for a better Canada.

One of the most poignant issues of this campaign has to be the budget introduced by the Grits (or was it the Tories...I could never keep those names straight). Everyone wants to stop inflation and bring the economy under control encore en fou (you'll note the beastly bilingual francophone footwork designed to debilitate). Well, the Great Canadian Goose Party, under my tutelage, has developed a two option plan for martial artsing inflation to the ground.

The first would involve engrossing the national debt by the square of all the ears in Newfoundland with freckles on the lobes. This amount would then be used to de-inflate the progenitor sector with definitive overdrive or an entirely revised confusion. We would use the monies earned by the reduced definitive overdrive to finance programs of inflated depreciation on all convertible socks and indicies. Of course, major assistance would be required for the swine herd breeding program, and heaven knows those pigs could use a little breeding, and a direct semi-detached subsidy will then be made available to all those with five children and two or more spouses (spice) and a broken linguator. These measures will of course require intricate fine tuning of the realstats and a brisk westerly wind with a light decapitation.

Those who marvel at the sheer brilliance of the above theory, will be even more agog when they hear of our second option. Economists in all parts of the world have referred to me as a necromancer with a spin cycle when they examined the details of this plan.

My second option requires a frontal attack on inflation from all sides. Simply stated, I would ban the word inflation from the Canadian vocabulary.

Voila! In one sweeping action I have eliminated a problem that has been troubling Canadians for decades. For those who say it can't be done, I point out that it is based on the erased tape theory carefully developed by Richard Nixon and his staff when he was United States president. If it can work for tricky Dicky, it can work for honest Hal.

As for this problem of bilingualism, the two language crisis and the French-English confrontation, I propose to eliminate all this foolishness and strife. No longer will we be a nation of two languages with the resultant feuds and melanges a trois. Indeed, what this country needs is un language, one language so we can all talk to each other in an easy to understand form. To achieve this I would outlaw all the bilingual provisions of the federal government and introduce a single lingua franca.

To be fair to all in our great and devastatingly wide country, I propose to declare Swahili as the one and only official language. My reasoning is obvious...every-one would start on an equal footing, no one could claim superiority because they spoke the lingo, we would all be learners again.

The entire nation, and ponder the beauty of this expletive, would be able to understand itself with a single language as clearly as it does now with two. Eat your heart out Switzerland (where, I'll have you know, they speak three languages but not a drop of Swahili.)

The brilliance of my plan is the sole reason others have been blind to its intrinsic utilitarianess. After all — bilingual today, Swahili tomorrow.

A vote for me on Monday is like a wounded fawn seeking refuge in the forest...eventually he will stumble upon someone's garbage. But I must dash now, I think I hear Miami calling.

A Message for Big Business

The election soapbox

In an effort to assist voters in the Minden area, and throughout the Victoria-Haliburton riding, to obtain a clearer understanding of the local candidates and their platforms, The Times has invited the four to submit commentaries on issues they feel are important. In the invitation we suggested that the candidates might deal with local issues, although no restriction was placed on the content of their message. The following commentaries were submitted, along with the introductory biographical information, for this purpose.

Patrick Daniel - New Democratic Party and is married with two children.

"Small business needs help." This was the message in Wilberforce on Tuesday from Patrick Daniel, New Democratic Party candidate in Victoria-Haliburton. Daniel was speaking at an open meeting for interested voters held in the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre.

Daniel outlined some of the problems facing the tourist industry, and other small businesses in the Haliburton area. "The small businessman is the one who is hardest hit by high interest rates. If he wants to launch a new business, or expand an existing business, he has to borrow money in the form of a loan or a mortgage at a rate of sixteen to eighteen per cent interest. On a mortgage of $50,000 that can result in annual interest payments of at least $8,000. If he needs a loan of $200,000 to get his business underway, he is faced right off the bat with annual payments of $32,000 or more in interest charges."

"These are the points to help the small businessman which Ed Broadbent listed in his speech in Orillia last week," said Daniel.

"First, the N.D.P. stands for an immediate reduction in the interest rates of at least two percentage points. This should be a matter of government policy, and the governor of the Bank of Canada should be required to co-operate with the elected representatives of the people in promoting this policy."

The second major point in the N.D.P. programme for the small businessman, according to Daniel, would be changes in the Bank Act to ensure that more money is set aside by the banks for small business lending.

Daniel said that both these measures would assist the operators of tourist facilities in Haliburton, since many of these operators need financial assistance to maintain or expand their operations.

Daniel also mentioned other N.D.P. policies to help the small businessmen who supply goods or services. These policies include further assistance to independent firms through the Export Development Corporation; a government procurement programme in which one-third of the government's spending on goods and services is guaranteed to small business; and the revision of contract competitions to make it easier for the small businessman to compete for government contracts.

"Our great natural resources of land and water here in Haliburton," said Daniel, "can be the base for a thriving tourist industry." The people engaged in this industry need "the active assistance of governments. Like most small businessmen, tourist industry operators lack the capital reserves from retained earnings or tax deferral provisions to help them ride out slowdowns or to finance expansion. It's time to transfer support from the large corporations - especially the multinationals which draw the profits from this country - to the small business sector."

Later in the meeting Daniel referred to the reasons for the New Democratic Party stand in favour of Petrocan.

"We pushed the Liberals into forming Petrocan during the 1972-1974 minority government," said Daniel. "We said then that Canada needed an oil company oriented to the public interest, instead of simply to private profits. That need is even greater today when we are faced with the necessity to work out import arrangements with foreign countries like Mexico in an uncertain international situation. And Canadians want to be sure that someone is looking after the interests of the public as we pour vast amounts of money into the development of new and more costly sources of energy."

"Petrocan has proved its worth," said Daniel. "Canadians are not ready to give away this national asset, and they will not be fooled by the Tory election gimmick which proposes to give to Canadians something they already own."

John Hayes - Libertarian Party

JOHN HAYES represents the Libertarian Party in the February 18 federal election. He is the president and general manager of a foundation engineering company which he started in Peterborough in 1967. He has served on the Peterborough County Board of Education, has been a member of the advisory board to Sir Sandford Fleming College and an active campaigner for the United Way in Peterborough. He is married and has one son.

A large percentage, possibly a majority, of the eligible voters of this riding are fed up and frustrated with the whole process of party politics as it now stands. As a voter you may fit into one of these categories:

- You feel that voting for any of the parties is a waste of time, so you don't vote.

- You don't like any of the parties, but you vote for the "lesser of evils" because you don't want to waste your vote.

- You can't decide which party to support (they are all so much alike) so you just pick one at random.

Your discontent is understandable. The major parties have become so similar that it's difficult to choose between them. For all practical purposes we seem to have a one-party system. We are governed by the Lib-Con-Orats, no matter who gets elected.

There is a better way

If you really cannot support any of the parties, then come to the polls and write "none of the above" on your ballot. This counts as a rejected ballot and lets the politicians know that you are not apathetic. This rejection method is better than voting for the "lesser of evils" since the party that gets your vote assumes that you support its policies. Your rejected ballot is an honest vote of protest. But if you want your protest to be clear and positive you should consider supporting the Libertarian Party.

Why the Libertarian Party?

We have now reached the stage where politicians and bureaucrats are making decisions for us that we used to make ourselves. The rules and regulations multiply. Ottawa takes more of our earnings through taxes each year; privileged groups who know how to play the "game of politics" use government to obtain benefits at the expense of those who do not. The government has been on a spending spree with our earnings. At the same time it has been inflating the money supply and reducing the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar. As a result we are rapidly losing our shirts and our freedom.

The Libertarian Party

wants to re-establish the idea that all individuals have the right to run their own lives and property as long as they don't forcibly interfere with others. We support a limited government which acts to protect these rights. We also support a free market economy which allows free men to deal with one another without government interference.

Let the government bite the bullet

To solve our national economic problems we have very few options. The government must balance the federal budget and it must do this by reducing spending, not

Ivan Rodd - Liberal

IVAN RODD is the Liberal candidate in the Victoria-Haliburton riding. A native of Pefferlaw, he has operated a cleaning firm in Lindsay since 1946. Rodd has served on the Lindsay United Appeal, the Chamber of Commerce and the Royal Canadian Legion. He is married and has five children.

The press and radio have been asking me to deal more with local issues.

I have been talking a great deal this campaign about Joe

Clark and his budget because they are local issues. It is crystal clear to me that this riding will be among those that are hardest hit by this "so called tough budget". I say so called because it is tougher on some than on others. Is it tough on the $30,000 a year man who rides a government subsidized street car to work? Is it tough on the unionized workers along the lakeshore who are close to their jobs? Is it tough on small businesses who don't depend on the tourist trade and who are close to their market? Or is it tough on the pensioner trying to heat and maintain their home on a fixed income or a GM worker living in this riding or a business community dependant on the disposable income of tourists or a local manufacturer already fighting high freight and energy costs?

My friends, this budget is very much a local issue.

We know that the 18c per gallon excise tax is being used to pay for the mortgage interest and property tax credit. And we know that this tax credit was brought in only because the Tory backroom boys told Joe Clark that he couldn't break all his election promises.

You know this is the first time I've run for office and I say I find some things very hard to believe. Now I didn't expect Ontario Premier Bill Davis to say he wouldn't support Joe Clark, however it amazed me that he would come out and campaign on his behalf when he and his government indicated the serious damage the Clark budget would do to this province.

Now there is one other very important part to this election and I am going to be very frank about this issue. And the issue to which I refer is Joe Clark himself. The fact is that Joe Clark is not Prime Ministerial material - plain and simple. The man's complete lack of exposure to anything other than the Ottawa political scene caused him to make judgements based to a large degree on political expediency. That sort of decision maker does not belong in the office of the Prime Minister of Canada.

And the bottom line of the message we must take to the voters of Victoria-Haliburton is this. If you vote Liberal, your vote will make a difference

Bill Scott - Progressive Conservative

BILL SCOTT is the Progressive Conservative candidate in the riding and also the incumbent. He has served as MP for the constituency of Victoria-Haliburton since 1965. A former reeve of the Township of Snowdon, Scott is the proprietor of a grocery store in the community of Kinmount. He is married and has two children.

The Progressive Conservative government is being blamed for all of the country's ills, in spite of the fact that we were only in office for seven months.

It is very convenient for the Liberals to have someone else to blame for its eleven years of mis-management, reckless spending, mis-calculations and fumbling inefficiency, but I don't believe that Canadians will so easily forget the Trudeau years.

When our PC government took over last May we inherited a deficit in current accounts of twelve billion dollars, the country faced an energy crisis, the Canadian dollar was in disrepute around the world, and Canada's image in the international community was at its lowest ebb in decades.

The Canadian Armed Forces were in such a state of unreadiness that it would not have been possible for them to respond to an emergency, either at home or abroad.

In just seven short months the PC government of Joe Clark had begun to turn things around.

Our government took initiatives in fiscal management, social legislation, armed forces revitalization, and in the field of international affairs and the result of our efforts are clearly in evidence.

There is no disputing the fact that Canada has regained its rightful place in the international community as a credible voice in foreign affairs. Prime Minister Joe Clark and External Affairs Minister Flora MacDonald have done more to enhance Canada's image in the world community than any government over the past sixteen years.

The Progressive Conservative government's December budget was the first budget in recent years to take a realistic approach to our national problems and national goals.

We were in the process of reviewing all social legislation, such as old age security, and all health insurance programs around the country. These programs have not kept up with changing times, and too

Child abuse - search for a solution

This is the second of a two-part series on child abuse and the work of the Children's Aid Society in attempting to identify incidents of abuse and to assist those involved.

More information on child abuse can be obtained by contacting the Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society office in Lindsay.

Child abuse is a problem that, in the past few years, has moved from the shadowy edges of society to the bright glare of open scrutiny. Publicity and increased concern about the effects on the children and the impact on society has meant that legislators and social workers have been striving to correct the problem.

Child abuse is rarely an isolated incident. It is in fact one part in a chain of events, a signal of many other problems and frustrations that disrupt a home life. Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society worker Bruce Watson notes, "If you are looking for a single word to hang the problem on, I think it would be "stress". In a home where perhaps the relationship between the husband and wife has broken down, where one of the parents may be missing or a common-law parent with little or no emotional ties with the child, a great deal of stress may be present. Add financial problems, emotional instability, medical problems, isolation caused by economic reasons, and you have a setting where frustrations build to a breaking point."

When that point is reached, like a pressure cooker, something has to give. Some people turn to alcohol, others run away and some strike out at their children.

Children are the target for these frustrations for a number of reasons. They demand or require attention, perhaps just at a time when other worries have become a heavy burden. Their size and vulnerability make them easy targets for adults, who are having trouble coping with the problems.

Studies have also shown that child abusing parents often experienced similar treatment during their childhood. This treatment may have taken place at a very early age, so that the adult cannot actually remember the events, but they have left a mark on their emotional make-up.

"This is one of the most urgent reasons for finding and helping those families where child abuse has taken place," Watson commented. "We want to break that chain, we want to show the child that it need not be this way."

The CAS worker also said that studies have shown that abused children are more likely to have emotional problems during the transition to adulthood. They are also more likely to find themselves in trouble with the law.

The reaction of the Children's Aid Society, and other agencies to child abuse cases, follows a two-pronged approach. "First and foremost is the protection of the child," Watson comments. "We investigate every complaint we receive, confronting the adults with the information and attempting to solve the problem. However, if there is any indication the child will be in further danger if left at home, he is taken into our care."

More often than not the CAS worker however finds the parents are willing to accept the guidance and assistance offered. "Most parents are asking for help, they are relieved that they can now talk about the problem," Watson commented.

With the help of the CAS worker, and others in the community, the parents receive help with the problems that are causing the stress. Financial counselling, being introduced to other members of the community to eliminate isolation, a free baby-sitting service to give a mother a day away from the kids, training in child management, family, personal or marital counselling, the options and courses of action are as many and varied as the problems which can trouble people. The aim is to reduce the stress, to bring calm and organization into the lives of those who are confused or lost.

This approach allows the CAS to monitor the home situation, watching for further signs of abuse, while at the same time attempting to eliminate the cause.

Of course, in some instances the child must be placed in the care of the Children's Aid Society, for its own protection or because the parents are simply unable to provide the proper setting for raising children.

Charges may also be laid against the parents if the police feel it is warranted. These can include various offenses of assault covered by the Criminal Code or for failing to provide the necessities of life, under the Child Welfare Act.

Recent publicity surrounding abused children has also led to changes in Ontario legislation. In 1978 a new section of the Child Welfare Act was enacted. It requires that professionals, such as teachers, medical personnel, social workers and others, who come in contact with a child they believe has been abused, are required by law to report their suspicions to the Children's Aid Society. The act also protects anyone reporting suspected cases of child abuse from subsequent civil action by the parents involved unless it can be proven that the report was made maliciously.

The new section has placed a great deal of responsibility on professionals, but as pointed out by Watson, "These are the people who have the closest contact with the children outside of the home. Some like teachers, see the child virtually every day. We must rely on them for prompt notification."

In confirmed cases of abuse the parents involved and the child are listed in a special provincial registry. The parents are informed that their named have been placed in the registry and they may appeal the action or seek correction of information contained in their files.

While the Child Welfare Act places a great burden on professionals, in reporting incidents of child abuse, that responsibility should be shared by all in the community. As friends, neighbours, relatives and members of society we have an obligation to protect our future adults from harm. That means recognizing the boundary between discipline and excessive force, by accepting that while a man's home may be his castle, it does not give him the right to abuse those too young to defend themselves, it means being willing to, when there are reasonable grounds, to call the proper authorities to report a child abuse incident.

Mainstream Canada

or manufactured - products.

Yet most subsidiaries of multinational companies, and even Canadian owned big businesses, appear to be reluctant to change their ways, replacing imports from the U.S. and other countries with components and end products manufactured here.

The evidence: even with a 15% decline in the value of the Canadian dollar vs the U.S. dollar in the last three years or so (the differential is greater compared with some other industrialized countries) we're still importing as much or more manufactured goods from other nations.

What's the problem? Why aren't big businesses buying more Canadian made goods?

Generally, the multinationals claim Canadians aren't aggressive enough in promoting their products.

Smaller manufacturers, on the other hand, argue this is not the case. They claim major companies in the big automotive, department store, and a variety of other fields are afraid to try something new, such as purchasing products in Canada.

"We seem to get the short end of the stick, even though we can provide quality and service at a better than competitive price," says an Ontario auto parts manufacturer. "The big companies just don't want to change their buying habits."

Instead of importing more and more foreign made goods, big business in Canada should take a second look at what's available in this country. Otherwise, Canadians may get upset when they see jobs being siphoned to other nations.

By making a real effort to "Buy Canadian," major firms would deserve a pat on the back. It's a point worth noting.

many people being left out of social programs, and others are not being adequately served. Our government was defeated before we could make any real progress.

We were able to get legislation through Parliament to allow the younger spouse to continue drawing the spouses allowance upon the death of an older spouse. Under the old Liberal legislation the younger spouse lost the allowance if the older spouse died, even if he or she had no other source of income.

We tabled legislation to remove inequities in veterans benefits, to improve benefits and allowances for widows and children of veterans, and to clear up the back-log in cases before the Canadian Pensions Commission, but this legislation died when our government was defeated.

Scott said that the PC government was developing a national energy policy to move our country towards energy self-sufficiency, and was also planning to increase the strength of the armed forces and re-equip the forces with modern weapons, ships and aircraft.

All of these plans have gone down the drain with the defeat of our government and valuable time has been lost. Our Progressive Conservative government is anxious to get back in business and get things moving again.

- An immediate freeze on all government capital expenditures. (We don't need any more government buildings or redecorated offices.)

- Cutting all government budgets by 10%. (Maxwell Henderson, the former Auditor General recommends a 15% cut.)

- Removing indexed salaries from M.P.'s and senior civil servants.

- Phasing out some government operations such as - the Metric Commission, subsidies and grants to political parties, foreign aid to dictatorships.

- Remove all grants and subsidies to Crown Corporations.

- Establishing a sound dollar by returning to a gold standard.

STANHOPE NOTES

by A. F. Stevenson

The February 6 meeting of Township Council was one of the shortest in a long time, due in part to the fact that there were no delegations present, and also because there were few matters involving the various committees. Considerable time and discussion was given to the matter of the Old Hawk Lake Road which, as is generally known, is a matter of contention between the County roads committee and Township of Stanhope. Whether or not the Township will submit to the County demand that the road be taken over is not yet clear, but a letter is going out to property owners along the affected part of the road to outline a new proposal for closing or dead-ending the road. Response to this approach will no doubt be of assistance to council on it's decision on the matter. What is not clear to some people is why, since the road is at present a county road, should the township be saddled with the task of closing the road and perhaps with the need for assuming expenditure for repairs where needed, to say nothing of all the problems associated with the closing. It would seem to make sense for the township to refuse to take over the road until it is free of all the encumbrances associated with it. Council also received a presentation from the Acid Rain committee outlining some information re liming of lakes where this has been necessary, and also providing Council with the most recent test results made by Ontario Ministry of Environment re the condition of Stanhope lakes. These tests made during 1978 and 1979 indicate that the township lakes are in satisfactory condition, but there was also reason to believe that the buffering ability of a few lakes is low, thus indicating susceptibility to becoming adversely acidified in a few years. Another matter brought to the attention of Council was the report of the atomic Energy Research Committee dealing with the study of Nuclear Waste disposal plans.

While the study is in it's early stages, the fact that Haliburton County is among those places being studied as possible suitable areas for such disposal sites is believed to be reason to be alert to this activity. Because of this wider area of concern the name of the committee has been changed to the Environment Committee. Reeve Jim Harrison expressed a wish to keep the public informed on these concerns and directed the Environment Committee to plan a public meeting at a time when seasonal and permanent residents would have an opportunity to attend. Stanhope Airport Committee are moving briskly ahead with plans for a St. Patrick's dance to be held March 15. The music and the price will be right and the Committee are planning an enjoyable affair. Tickets can be obtained from Stan Moore or Derek Rolfe or any member of the Airport Committee. This active committee is also pressing ahead with plans for the Fly-in to be held in June and they are making an effort to bring a new and interesting attraction to Stanhope. Described as a new and a different type of flying machine, it has been seen by few people in this area and could prove to be a bit of a sensation when and if the committee are successful in their efforts to bring it to Stanhope. More information will be given to the public when plans are further advanced.

Oro takes Kash. tourney

The hockey team from Oro just about dominated every game they played the past weekend in the Lake Kashagawigamog Tourist Association Atom Tournament, including the championship game. In the four hockey games, played from Friday to Sunday, they out-scored their opponents 27-3, including one shut-out. The score of the final game in which Oro was victorious was 6-1 against the Amherst Atoms.

Huskies split pair

The Haliburton Huskies played a strong two-way hockey game, on Saturday, in their 8-4 victory over the Bancroft Jets. The Lakefield Chiefs, who have now won four games in succession, were too much for the Huskies, as they downed Haliburton 7-4 on Sunday night.

Lakefield's two wins gave them a record of 17 wins, 9 losses, and a four-point lead in the race for top position in the four-team Junior "D" league.

In the first period at Haliburton, against Bancroft, the Huskies worked hard for several scoring chances, but were not able to cash-in as the Bancroft defence were extremely poised in their own end.

The Jets opened the scoring 5:54 into the period when Brian Martin let go a wrist-shot from the Huskies blue-line that slid along the ice and past Haliburton goaltender, Craig Wood, who was being screened.

When Jeff Rupnow put Bancroft in-front 2-0, 8:08 into the first period, thoughts of last Saturday's seven goal outburst in the first period by Lakefield must have entered the Haliburton players' minds.

Haliburton were not about to let another home-town embarrassment occur. Chris Hodgson scored a spectacular goal at 13:46 to take the momentum away from the Jets.

After taking a pass at centre ice from Davies, Hodgson moved across the Bancroft blueline, split through the defencemen, and after dekeing the Jet goaltender, Dave McCormack, to the ice, shot the puck into the open side of the net while being tripped-up by the Bancroft defencemen.

At 17:09 of the first period Mike Ray used his "tree-trunk" size to fight the puck away from two Bancroft players in the corner of the Jets end zone, and slip the puck out in front to Brian Lloyd, who shot the puck low, between McCormack's legs and into the net.

Davies scored for Haliburton 5:18 into the period to break the tie, and put the Huskies out in front 3-2.

Bancroft came right back with one of their own, by Randy Franksy, to even up the score once again.

Haliburton took over from there, dominating the play and the goal-scoring for the remainder of the period.

Joe Roberts and Chris Hodgson scored eighteen seconds apart, for the Huskies, to put them out in front by two goals, 5-3.

Roberts, the league scoring leader, melted the ice behind him as he burned around the Bancroft defence, gave McCormack a deke, and shot the puck up over the goaltender's left shoulder.

Hodgson sent the puck in after being set-up nicely in the slot area with a pass from Ken O'Hara.

The only action in the dreary remainder of the second period was when a Haliburton player drove a slap-shot from the point that deflected off a stick and hit McCormack on the face-mask. McCormack sat out the remainder of the second period to recover from the blow, while back-up goalie McCrae took over in the net for Bancroft. McCormack was back in action for the third period.

Huskies struck twice in the first 7:39 of the final period. Dave Brown, the team sniper, put the Huskies out in front 6-3 at the 5:19 mark of the period. Just over two minutes later Davies got his second goal of the game for Haliburton, and it looked like the Jets were going to get romped.

Randy Franksy, Bancroft's leading scorer, netted his second goal of the game with an amazing back-hander. He spun around ten feet in front of the Haliburton goal, and let the shot go. The puck sailed up over Craig Wood's shoulder and into the top left corner of the net. Wood who made some startling glove-hand saves during the second and third periods, was handcuffed on the sharp backhand by Franksy.

Haliburton nursed their 7-4 lead throughout the remainder of the game, but broke out of their defensive shell long enough for Chris Hodgson to complete his hat-trick with help from Potter and Davies.

Hodgson's goal, at 18:55 put the Huskies into a 8-4 lead which they held until the final buzzer.

Lakefield over-powering

The Lakefield Chiefs defeated the Haliburton Huskies 7-4 on Sunday night, at Lakefield, to continue their winning streak which has now come to four games.

If Haliburton had won the game, they would have been tied for top place with the Chiefs, but Lakefield over-powered the Huskies in the second period and came out of the game two wins ahead of the Huskies, and the Bancroft Jets in the Junior "D" standings.

In the first period Joe Roberts opened the scoring for Haliburton at the 2:40 mark with assists going to Chris Hodgson and Dave Brown.

The early goal apparently didn't take any wind out of the Chief's sails, as Lakefield fought back with a goal by Dennis Fairburn at the 4:11 mark of the first period.

There was no other scoring in the opening period, as neither team was able to cash-in on scoring opportunities.

Lakefield took command in the second period as they out-scored the Huskies 3-1 in that frame.

Haliburton scored the opening goal of the period, at 15:32, as Dwight Sisson put the puck behind Lakefield goalie Rob Norris, with the assist going to Chris Hodgson.

The Chiefs immediately went to work again. They pumped three pucks behind Craig Wood before the second period was over. Wasson scored twice in the period for the Chiefs and Al Marquardt, who got two goals and two assists in the game, got the other Lakefield marker of the period.

In the final period Haliburton made a valiant effort to come back, after falling behind 4-2.

Chris Hodgson, after getting three goals and one assist against Bancroft on Saturday, got two goals and two assists against Lakefield, including the opener of the third period which pulled Haliburton to within one goal of the Chiefs, at 16:51.

Lakefield's Al Armstrong put the Chiefs back into their comfortable two goal lead with only 8:28 left in the game.

Fifty-one seconds later, at 7:37, a determined Chris Hodgson netted his second goal of the third period to set the stage for a close finish, with the Chiefs ahead 5-4.

Lakefield didn't favour the way the stage was set, so Marquardt quickly changed it around. Just over a minute after Hodgson had brought Haliburton within one goal, Marquardt scored his second of the night, at 6:28 to put Lakefield in front to stay.

Armstrong topped off the win, for the Chiefs, with his second goal of the game with 1:32 to play. That goal, along with four assists, gave Armstrong six points in the game.

Atom

The Minden Atoms defeated Oakwood 3-2 at Minden on Thursday February 7. Tom MacLeod led the Minden team with two goals. Scott Nesbitt scored the other Minden goal.

The Minden Atoms played to a more convincing victory on Saturday February 9. They downed Woodville 4-1, in Minden to give themselves a record of three wins and two losses in the round-robin series. Minden goal scorers in the game were Dwayne Cooper with two, singles going to John Wells and Scott Nesbitt.

Pee Wee

The Minden Pee Wees ended their round-robin series with Sunderland and Bobcaygeon with 3 wins, 1 tie, and no losses, by tying Sunderland 5-5 in the final game. The game was played in Sunderland on Tuesday February 5.

By the end of the first period Sunderland had opened a 1-0 lead with strong defensive play. The second period was more open, as Sunderland scored twice and Minden three times. The scorers for Minden in the second period were Sean Allore, John Ballantyne, and Paul Allore.

Jeff Howe put Minden out in front by one goal, 1:46 into the third period. Sunderland fought back with two goals, and by the 10:50 mark of the final period Minden was behind by one goal. Paul Allore put the Minden club back on track with a goal at the 12:26 mark from Greg Newell.

The two teams finished up strongly but were unable to score. The final buzzer left Minden and Sunderland tied at five goals apiece.

In their first game at a "best of five" series against Bobcaygeon, the Minden Pee Wees were trounced 8-2. The only Minden goal-scorers were Glen Hall and Greg Newell.

Kirby Swann led the victorious Bobcaygeon club with five goals.

Bantam

The Minden Bantams started their best of five series against Bobcaygeon way "behind the eight ball". In Bobcaygeon on Thursday February 7, Minden was downed 5-2 by the hosts. The second game of the series was played at Minden, Saturday. Things didn't get any better at home. On the contrary, it got three goals worse, as Minden was crushed 7-1 by the Bobcaygeon club.

Scott Hamilton scored the only Minden goal of the game, as he netted the puck in the third period.

Midget

The Minden Midgets played well in their last two games of their round-robin series with Bobcaygeon and Sunderland.

In Sunderland the Minden club thrashed the home-team 11-1, then played strongly in a 4-4 tie with Bobcaygeon at Minden.

Dave Lennie, Rick Beene, and Ivan Ingram scored twice, in Sunderland to pace the slaughter. Ron Yake, Shaun Chapman, Harold Porter, Brent Moxam and Kevin Hamilton got singles to build up the Minden total to 11 goals.

Minden came back against Bobcaygeon at home after falling behind 3-0 and tied up the game 4-4.

Kevin Shapiera scored two consecutive goals for the Minden team, then Ivan Ingram scored followed by Bobcaygeon's fourth goal. Harold Porter scored the equalizer for Minden with 8:25 left in the game.

Minden played well in Bobcaygeon but came out of the game on the unfortunate end of a 4-0 score.

The Minden Midgets did everything, including outshooting Bobcaygeon, but they were unable to put the puck in the net.

The second game of the best of five series will be played in Minden on Tuesday February 12 at 8:00 p.m.

Juvenile

The Minden Juveniles tied Port Carling 5-5 in the first game of their best of five series, played at Minden on Friday February 8.

Minden jumped out to a quick 3-0 lead with goals by Greg Carpenter, Gary Harrison, and Kim Hamilton. A goal by Port Carling while they were two men short brought the Carling boys to life, but Minden held them to one goal in the first period.

Port Carling fired one past the Minden goalie fifty-five seconds into the second period to put Port Carling only one goal behind Minden with the score 3-2. Gary Harrison scored his second goal of the game to lift Minden to a 4-2 lead going into the third period.

Port Carling scored three unanswered goals by the 11:54 mark of the final period to take a 5-4 lead on the startled Minden club. Roger Hicks scored the tying goal for Minden, while his team was short-handed, with assists going to Davies and Walker.

The teams played a scoreless overtime, therefore the game remained dead-locked at five goals.

Minden and Port Carling were awarded one point each for the tie.

Tykes

On Saturday February 9, the Minden Tykes were shut-out 2-0 in a close match against Lakefield.

The game was played in Minden.

Tri-county bantams

Minden were defeated 7-1 at the hands of Fenelon Falls on Thursday February 17.

The game was the first in a best of three series between the two clubs.

Danny Hayes scored the lone Minden goal.

RE-ELECT BILL SCOTT

THE FACTS ABOUT OIL PRICING

- * The non-existent Trudeau energy policy over the past 11 years has done nothing to promote energy self-sufficiency in Canada. In fact, it has had the opposite effect.
- * Trudeau won't say how much he will raise oil prices if he gets the chance, but we know that gasoline prices rose by 14 cents a year in his last four years in office.
- * The federal subsidy on imported oil for the Maritime provinces is now two-and-a-half billion dollars per year. This will rise to five billion per year unless something is done to reduce our dependency on foreign energy sources.

UNDER A PC GOVERNMENT

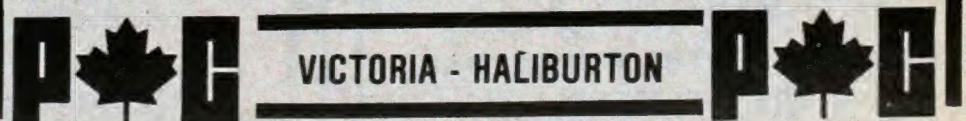

- * Farmers will receive a ten-cents-per-gallon rebate on fuel purchased for farm use.
- * Homeowners will be exempt from excise taxes on oil purchased for home heating.
- * All persons with incomes under $21,000 per year will be eligible for an energy tax credit of $30 per adult and $30 per child, per year, whether you pay taxes or not.

McNabb-Ray wedding

Beautiful floral standards of yellow gladioli, talisman roses, rust mums and melon carnations decorated St. Bonaventure's Church in Toronto, on October 20th, 1979 for the afternoon wedding of Mary Flora (Skip) Macnab, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Don Macnab, Red Umbrella Inn, Minden, and Douglas Allen Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Parisotto of Ajax, Ontario.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian gown of white silk crepe with tulle lace bodice and sleeve inserts. The skirt, ending in a four foot train, was trimmed with chantilly lace and had lace roses appliqued diagonally from waist to hemline. Her tulle-illusion finger-tip veil fell from a crown of roses and pearls. She carried a bouquet of golden blush roses, rust berries, stephanotis, baby's breath and silver-tipped ivy.

Her attendants wore identical blouson matte Jersey floor-length gowns with split sleeves. The Bride's sister, Elizabeth Larter, was her matron of honour in rust, and carried a cascade bouquet of talisman roses, Acadian poppies, daisy mums, rust carnations and ivy. Ruth Ray a sister of the groom, was gowned in melon and carried a cascade bouquet of talisman roses, melon carnations, rust baby mums and ivy. Patty Parisotto, a sister of the groom and Junior Bridesmaid, wore yellow and carried a bouquet of talisman roses, yellow carnations, rust baby mums and ivy. Mary Britton, Johanne Denis, Janet Love and Margaret Ross, gowned in soft forest green, carried bouquets of talisman roses, rust carnations, gold baby mums and ivy. All wore hair adornments in matching shades.

The best man was Alan Britton and the ushers were Scott Harrison, Brian Larter, the bride's brother-in-law, Wayne McGee and Doug Macnab, brother of the bride. They wore brown tuxedos with boutonniers of talisman roses. Most of the wedding party graduated with the bride and groom from A.S.E.S. in Minden and Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ray

The mother of the bride received the guests at the Studio, Guild Inn, Toronto wearing a cranberry matte jersey gown. Her corsage and hair adornment were orchids. The mother of the groom assisted wearing an aquamarine gown with a bronze orchid corsage and hair adornment.

Mrs. John Rinehart, Aunt of the groom, was organist. Mr. Curtis Rogers was M.C. and Miss Judy Cooper said grace.

The bride's going away suit was a black velvet jacket, with beige and mauve plaid skirt, beige turtle neck sweater and black accessories. The couple will live in Ajax.

Out of town guests were from Barrie, Armstrong, Horne Payne, Minden, North Bay, Colorado and Georgia.

Hot warning

Owners of DeVilbiss vaporizers, models 1280, 1320 and 1450, should stop using them immediately because of a potential fire hazard according to the Canadian Standards Association (CSA).

CSA has received six reports from consumers and fire departments of these appliances failing with some resulting in vaporizer fires. No injuries have been reported.

The vaporizers were sold across Canada between October 1978 and July 1979.

Although the original units met CSA standards and were certified, CSA's investigators later discovered poor internal connections in the six vaporizers due to a manufacturing defect.

People who have a vaporizer which has the marking: DeVilbiss and No. 1280, 1320 or 1450 and CSA LR 42661, should stop using it immediately and send it in for a replacement to:

A Penney's Worth

by Yvonne Penney

Jerry Griffin is progressing nicely in Peterborough Civic Hospital but will be burdened with a body cast for six weeks when he comes home which will be two weeks from now hopefully.

Ray Griffin has returned home from Civic Hospital in Peterborough after undergoing surgery on his leg. Best wishes Ray.

Lloyd Johnson of Blairhampton has been admitted to hospital to undergo some testing. Hope to see you back in the post office soon, Lloyd.

Carnarvon Choir members had a card from Ruby and Elvin Johnston last week. They are on a trip to Ecuador and report being very busy but having an enjoyable time. Their luggage was lost for one week so they had to wear borrowed clothes. They will have numerous stories to tell of their trip when they arrive home.

We also had a note from Blanche and Maurice Windsor and all is well with them.

Lloyd Harrison of Scarborough has been spending his recent days in a hospital there. Hope to see you soon, Lloyd, spring and cottage time will soon be here again.

I attended a Juvenile hockey game in Minden last Friday night. The same two referees, Ken Griffin and his partner of Lindsay, were in attendance but they certainly did a much better job than in the series with Bobcaygeon which the Minden boys won in spite of the so called impartial referees. This game was a whole different game against Port Carling. Our boys were leading several times but the game ended up a tie game after regulation time and one ten minute overtime period. The boys were missing their coach, I think, and poor Joe was pacing the foyer which was as close as he was allowed to his players. Minden goal scorers were Gary Harrison who scored 2, Kim Hamilton 1, Greg Carpenter 1 and Roger Hicks with 1 for a total of five. Bailey Hamilton was in the net for Minden and both he and the Port Carling goalie were superb. Only a few minutes in penalties were awarded - it was a well-played, clean fought game and one I was proud to watch.

Joe Hughes who lives up on the Norley Road has been singled out for distinction. Apparently, Joe has been recommended by George Brown College in Toronto to fill a position, as an expert and unmarried meat-cutter, for the United Nations in Geneva, Switzerland. Joe attained the highest mark ever achieved at the college when he attended George Brown to receive his license. We who know this young man are justly proud of his being asked to travel to Geneva as an emissary from Canada. Joe is interested in many things, two of which are photography and skiing which he will be able to pursue in his travels there. Congratulations, Joe.

I was very pleased to be asked by Marion Lodenquai to be her guest at the Chinese Cooking Class last Saturday held at the Minden United Church. One of the many winter courses offered by Sir Sandford Fleming College. I arrived after two dishes had been prepared but in time to watch the preparation of Cantonese Chop Suey and Won-Ton Soup. The dishes which were prepared previous to my arrival were Scrambled Beef and chicken Wings with Oyster Sauce. We enjoyed Jasmine tea and pastries during a short break and then all gathered in the kitchen to watch the actual cooking which takes only a short time. After a short sojourn in the kitchen, we set up the tables and prepared to eat this sumptuous repast and we all thoroughly enjoyed our long-awaited dinner. The meat was very tender and the vegetables crisp and such a true colour. I left the class feeling content and happy to have been associated with such a great group of women and to have enjoyed such a great meal. My thanks to Marion for the invitation and I certainly hope I can join this class another year.

Sympathy of the community is extended to Marjory McPhadyen, Marie Cox, Don and Doug McPhadyen and their families in the loss of a husband and father. Malcolm McPhadyen spent his almost ninety years in Blairhampton and was one of our pioneers.

Barb Allison of Kushog Lake has spent some time in Lindsay Hospital where she has undergone surgery. Best of luck, Barb.

Our sympathy is extended to Kay Findlay and family on the death of her husband Bill who was a resident of Extencicare in Haliburton. Kay was a member of our choir here when they lived on Mountain Lake.

From the United Church

Bulletin of February 10th - "Doing nothing is the most tiresome job in the world - because you can't quit and get a rest from it."

Some twenty-five members of Zion United Church in Carnarvon joined with the newly-sponsored Vietnamese family from Minden to enjoy a pot-luck supper on Sunday night. After a delicious meal, we held our annual congregational meeting. There was much business to go through and the meeting was over about nine-thirty. Three new trustees were appointed since some of the previous ones are winter residents of the sunny south. The three trustees are Elsie Bursey, Elgin Stouffer and Norm Wallace. Three new Stewards were also appointed to replace three whose term was up this year. These three are Dean Hodgson, Jim Tomlinson and myself. Personally, I am pleased to see a young member such as Jim taking an interest in church affairs. Many other decisions were discussed and made into rules for our church.

Belinda Brown has spent the last week in Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. She came home on

There will be a public general meeting of the Haliburton County Chapter of the Association for Children With Learning Disabilities held at the Legion Auditorium in Haliburton on Tuesday, February 26 at 8 p.m. The theme of this meeting is "What Can We Do For Our Children and How Can We Use A.C.L.D. to Help Them?" More information will be forthcoming in this column next week concerning the guest speaker.

Keep in mind that next Tuesday February 29 is parents' night at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School - if you have any questions of a particular teacher who teaches your teenager. Also a mention here that the four candidates in the forthcoming election are to be at the Secondary School on Tuesday, February 12 to speak to the senior students.

So many students are absent from school these days - it must be very frustrating for teachers to teach a classroom half-full of students and also for the ill students who have so much catching up to do on their return to class.

can wear" now being taught by Judy Chapman is an excellent course designed for students with varied levels of experience. Each student is encouraged to design and complete a garment, emphasis is being placed on texture, colour, pattern, planning, utilizing stripes and varied techniques. The class is an enthusiastic one and the course runs until March 10.

Don't forget to drop in to the gallery Saturday for tea and during carnival weekend hot chocolate and sandwiches.

AROUND THE TOWN

by Jeanne Sears

Just one more week of hearing the candidates on radio and T.V.; seems like a bit much, twice in less than a year.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt are home after a motoring holiday in the sunny south, a visit with the Angus Camerons at Avon Park Florida and a visit on the way home at Lilbourne, Georgia with Joy and Don Kellett and family. While with the latter, Jean and George enjoyed a tour of Stone Mountain Park.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Malcolm McPhadden and Frank Ferren who died since last week.

All their friends send good wishes to these people who have been in hospital, Minnie Hall, Lloyd Johnston and Vinton Loucks.

The U.C.W. meeting was held Wednesday, February 6 at the church hall. Reverend J.H. Burgess, who has been in Belgian Congo for 20 years showed slides of his work there. Alice Todd conducted the devotional and Mrs. D. Berry took charge of the business meeting.

The Horticultural Society is chartering a bus for February 27 to attend the Flower Show in Toronto. The bus will leave Minden at 8 a.m. If interested please call 286-2228 or 286-2057. Supper will be on the way home. The bus fare is $10. Admission to the show is Sr. Citizens $3, others $4.

Weekend guests with Mrs. Ern Hewitt included Fred Hewitt of Scarborough and Heather Barber and Neil Hewitt of Carleton Place.

Gerald Coulter of Toronto enjoyed a visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Angus Coulter, last weekend.

Laura Bird of Toronto spent the weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bird.

Visiting relatives and friends in our village over the weekend was Glen Stamp of Oshawa.

What good did it do to be grouchy today? Did your surliness drive any troubles away? Did you cover more ground that you usually do, because of the grouch that you carried with you? If not, what's the use of a grouch or a frown, if it won't smoothe a path or bring trouble down? If it doesn't assist you is isn't worthwhile. Your work may be hard, but just do it - and smile!

At the weekly Card Party at the Parish Hall last Thursday afternoon winners were for cribbage Dora Dawson and Agnes Taylor and for euchre lone hands Pearl Cowan (on a cut) and Alice Sedgwick and Johann Beattie.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Warburton and boys visited relatives over the weekend.

Don't forget Women's Institute is at the United Church Hall next Wed., Feb. 20 at 2 p.m. and bring your tickets in for the Grocery Box Draw and also ideas for the Spring Bus Trip.

The Annual Dinner with pancake Dessert will be at St. Paul's Parish Hall on February 29 from 5-7.

The annual meeting of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Scholarship Funds will be held on Thursday, February 21 in the High School. Anyone who is interested in the financial report of the Scholarship Fund, Loan Fund and Perpetual Award Fund, is welcome.

Valentine's Day is coming on so here's a verse to suit that day.

Amid the cares of married life, In spite of toil and business strife, If you value your sweet wife, Tell her so! Prove to her you don't forget The bond to which your seal is set; She's of life's sweet the sweetest yet - Tell her so! Don't act as if she'd passed her prime, As though to please her was a crime— If e'er you loved her, now's the time: Tell her so! Never let her heart grow cold— Richer beauties will unfold: She is worth her weight in gold.

SENIOR LEAGUE

by Linda English

The weather has been lovely and sunny all week, and it has put everyone at Hyland Crest in a happy frame of mind. Monday morning, we went to fun and fitness and exercised to music and played monkey in the middle.

Later in the afternoon the ladies went to crafts while the men played carpet bowling with Lloyd Coleman in the auditorium.

Reverend Lorne Schmitt, of the Gospel Church in Minden, held an inspiring service in the chapel on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Agnes Taylor was here to play the organ for us.

In the afternoon, we viewed two very interesting movies. "Raising Cane" told how sugar cane, which is the most fundamental of all foods, is of great use to the human body.

"Faces Atlantic" was all about lobster and salmon fishing on the east coast. We were taken on a tour of the beautiful Atlantic provinces and were shown the hospitality of the eastern people. More and more tourists visit the Atlantic every year.

Thursday morning Mrs. Martha Kernohan made an excellent score of 90 out of a possible 120 in a game of roll the ball, at fun and fitness.

We welcomed Mr. Hugh Kernohan and Mrs. Irene Burns and Mr. Frank Ship back home after quite a lengthy stay in the hospital.

The Anglican Church Women of West Guilford were here for the afternoon tea party. They served cup cakes, crackers, cheese, sandwiches and cake. Thankyou ladies, that certainly was a terrific lunch.

Thursday evening the Kinsmen were here once again to call the numbers for our weekly bingo game.

Friday afternoon Grace Coburn accompanied by Lucille Clarke on the piano led the sing song. Singing along with Grace is a nice relaxing way to end the week.

Mrs. Ellen Knight celebrated her 95th birthday on Wednesday, February 6. Ellen is very active, taking part in fun and fitness and many other activities. We hope Mrs. Knight has many more happy birth-days.

Don't forget the Leap Year Card Party being held in the Hyland Crest Auditorium on February 29
